"Recollections of the Old Quarter," By Dr. Wm. S. Gordon of This City.

PUBLISHER'S PRICE $1.00, OUR PRICE 75c.

Dr. Gordon is well-known to everybody in his professional capacity as one of our leading physician and writers on medical topics. This Book reveals to Richmond and Virginia people another phase of his literary abilities.

"Recollections of the Old Quarter" is one of the best phonetic studies of the negro dialect that has yet appeared—but we'll let the critics speak, and here are some of their criticisms.

The Observer, of Louisville, says: "To a Virginian this book of reminiscences will be as a sweet song of olden days."
The Southern Churchman, of Richmond, says: "This is one of the books that ought to be published and ought to be read—and read not merely for amusement, but for knowledge of conditions that have passed out of existence and whose memory ought to be preserved."
The Times-Dispatch, of Richmond, says: "There is quaint humor and deep pathos in the little volume that makes it charming reading for any one. The dialect is that which only one who knows and has lived with the negro can write."

"Recollections of the Old Quarter" was placed on sale Saturday morning and has already proven itself to be a popular book.

Social and Personal

A fashionable event of to-day will be the marriage in St. Paul's Church of Miss Lella Myers and Mr. John H. Morgan, of New York. The Rev. Dr. Robert H. Morgan will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Richard O'Neill, of Boston, the sister of the bride, will be the dame of honor and Mr. Lancaster Morgan, of New York, will officiate at breakfast in the home of Mrs. Joseph R. Anderson will follow the ceremony.

Invitations have been received in Richmond for the marriage of Miss Margaret Lee Eatten, of Staunton, Va., to Mr. John Randall, of Philadelphia.

The ceremony will be performed in Christ Church, Smithfield, Tuesday, November 17th. Miss Eatten is a great favorite and has been much admired during her visits here.

Mrs. Randall, who formerly was connected in business with the Newport News ship yard, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Byrd Warwick announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louise Marquette, to Mr. John Stoney Davidson, of Staunton, Va.

Miss Warwick has traveled extensively and has been greatly admired in Denver, New York, Boston and other cities and Northern places of resort, as well as in Richmond.

A Virginia family, whose names have been famous since colonial days, and long before that time in England.

Mrs. Davenport is associated with the Life Insurance Company of Virginia. One of his ancestors, John Davenport, was the founder of the New Haven colony, and he is identified prominently with business and social life in New York.

The Virginia-Pilot of Sunday says: "Among those who will be present at the Baird-Michaels wedding in Richmond this week are: Dr. and Mrs. Julius F. Lynch and their little daughter, Miss Lillian; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lynch, of Lynchburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Cook, United States navy; Mr. W. Thompson, of Baltimore; Mr. Hugh M. Kerr, of New York; Mr. James L. Goode, of New York; and Mr. Otis Barron, of Norfolk."

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Annie de Pras Child, of Staunton, Va., to Mr. Julius Rodes Fishburne, of Staunton, Va., on Wednesday, November 18th, at 10 A. M., in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert Child, of No. 248 Beverly Street, Staunton.

Tea was served at the Woman's Club yesterday from 5 to 8 P. M.

The gathering of club members and the large infusion of out-of-town visitors rendered the occasion more than ordinarily attractive. The parlors were filled during the afternoon and pretty faces and bright faces ruled the hours.

St. John's Circle of King's Daughters will hold a work offering social from 4 to 6 P. M. in the home of Mrs. Ramon D. Garlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Raine, Jr., of Danville, Va., have been spending part of their honeymoon in this city, will leave this morning for Petersburg, and after visiting friends there will go to Norfolk, and there take the boat for New York and other points.

The bride, formerly Miss Beattie Marion Price, was gown in white, with a train of silk, trimmed with silk medallions and chiffon, with veil and orange blossoms. The veil caught up with a handsome diamond brooch, given her by the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

The young couple were attended by the following bridesmaids and groomsmen: Miss Frances Jackson, of Franklin; Mr. D. E. Graham, Jr., of Danville; Miss Myrtle Marshall, of Danville, and Mr. J. Frank Price, of Roanoke, the bride's brother; Miss Edith Price, of Staunton, and Mr. Bascom Jordan, of Danville.

Miss Bettie Raine, of Danville, sister of the bride, and Dr. Wood, of Franklin; Miss Tuttle, of Salem, and Dr. R. L. Price, of Franklin, cousin of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore white organdy over white taffeta, and carried bride-maid roses.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played as a processional and the Mendelssohn march as a recessional.

The young couple, both of whom have many friends and relatives in this city, were at the Lexington yesterday. Mr. Raine is a traveling salesman and a gentleman well known in Danville social circles, while his bride is a charming and cultured young woman, who adds beauty to her other charms.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, of London, England, and their little daughter, who are registered at the Holland House, New York, will soon be the guests of Mrs. Glasgow, father, Mr. John P. Branch, of this city.

Mrs. Glasgow, before her marriage, was Miss Margaret Raine, and has lived in London for several years, and has been presented to the most successful electricians among Americans, who have followed that profession.

Mr. Arthur J. Baldwin, of the firm of Griggs, Baldwin & Baldwin, who spent a few days in Richmond last week as the guest of Mr. A. W. Patterson, returned to New York Sunday night.

Mr. Baldwin's third appearance at the stockholders in the recent suit against the United States Tobacco Stemming Company.

Mrs. R. T. Hunter and Miss Beattie Raine reached Richmond yesterday morning from a ten days' visit to New York.

Miss Helen Burnett and Miss Elsie Aylett Coffey will be hostesses at the "studio tea" to be given November 13th at No. 101 West Main Street from 4:30 to 6:30 P. M.

Guests attending the "studio tea" given last season by Misses Burnett and Coffey, and remembering the delightful programmes presented then are looking forward with the liveliest anticipatory pleasure to a revival of the tea.

Pictures of Miss Marie J. Burke, of Richmond, and Miss Ruby Hammer, of Lynchburg, Va., adorned the society page of the New York Herald last Sunday.

The Church Hill Board of the W. C. A. will hold a regular meeting in their home, No. 206 East Franklin Street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Miss Nannie P. Tabb, of Baltimore, is the guest of her brother, Mr. Robert Tabb, of No. 1415 Floyd Avenue.

Lynched for the Attempt.

(By Associated Press.)

RAIGLAND, ALA., Nov. 8.—Charles Young, a negro, was lynched near Coal City Saturday night for attempting a criminal assault upon Mrs. Barbour, a white woman. Mrs. Barbour was alone at home when the negro entered the house. She was frightened into a way. Young worked at a railroad construction camp.

THE DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY

The Annual Convention to Begin in Charleston To-morrow Morning.

All the Confederate women of Virginia are interested in the annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which will convene in Charleston, S. C., on Wednesday morning and continue until Saturday evening. The Charleston Chapter has made arrangements for the entertainment and the pleasure of the visiting daughters, and those who make the trip are assured in advance of old-time hospitality.

The Richmond delegation will be headed by Mrs. Edgar Taylor, and will include Mrs. Hugh Miller, J. H. Timberlake, Hugh Taylor, George A. Lyon, B. A. Blenner, Edward Valentine, W. R. Vawter, Miss Bettie Ellyson and others. All the other chapters in the State or nearly all will be represented at the convention. In fact, Virginia promises to be well represented, both in numbers and personnel. The party will leave this city via the Atlantic Coast Line, part of them at 9:35 A. M. to-day and others at 7:25 o'clock A. M. to-morrow.

The delegates will be accorded an informal reception at the chapter hall, corner of Market and Meeting Streets, this evening, and opportunity will there be afforded for the visitors to meet the Charleston Daughters, their hosts.

The formal opening of the convention will take place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, in the chapter hall, corner of Market and Meeting Streets. The meeting will be presided over by the Governor of South Carolina and the bishop of that Episcopal Diocese, and there will be other welcoming speeches on the behalf of the chapter. The Charleston Chapter will serve an elegant luncheon in the basement of the hall after the morning session. All delegates and members of the chapter are invited to the luncheon. Luncheon will be served in the hall, also on Thursday and Friday morning between the forenoon and afternoon sessions.

Wednesday afternoon will be given up to social features of the gathering. A social hour will be given by the Ladies' Memorial Association and the Board of the Confederate Home College at the college, and another by the Colonial Dames at their rooms in the old colonial powder magazine.

Wednesday evening and Thursday morning will be given up to business sessions of the convention, and after lunch on Thursday there will be a brief session. The social features of Thursday will be an afternoon reception from 4 until 6 in the ball room of the St. John Hotel, given by the City Federation of Women's Clubs, and a brief session of the chapter. The Charleston Chapter will extend a formal reception to the visitors. The veterans will be present also.

Friday will be devoted entirely to business sessions, with the intermission luncheon. There will be a business session Friday morning and in the afternoon the delegates will be the guests of the city of Charleston, the guests being escorted by the Mayor and City Council on an excursion to the harbor. It is probable that the delegates will be afforded the opportunity of worshipping at the oldest colonial church in South Carolina on Sunday.

HIGHLAND SPRINGS.

A very large and much interested congregation was present at the Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday morning when the pastor, Rev. P. Cuthrell, gave his last sermon of the conference year, taking as his text one of St. Paul's farewell sermons to the Corinthians, a most fitting one for the occasion. Many heartfelt sympathies were expressed; not a few bedimmed eyes were seen.

The congregation of Marshall Memorial First Unitarian Church held its first winter service in Library Hall on yesterday, and will continue to meet therein during the winter months.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. G. T. Collins, the president, at 2:30 o'clock.

Thursday evening Mrs. Frank P. Read will entertain at the Highland Springs Hotel, the Women's National Alliance in Library Hall.

Mr. Cairnes, who sustained injury by falling from a house he was erecting, and who was laid up for a few days, will be able to leave this week for his home, and will be accompanied by his wife, who has returned to his home to spend the winter, having enjoyed the summer on his farm in New Hampshire.

Miss Dorothy and Miss Marnie Burke are at home to their friends at Sunset Cottage, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dudley.

Mr. Livingston's Work.

The Richmond friends of Mr. Livingston and they are legion—will be interested in the following from the Philadelphia Enquirer and the Richmond Times-Dispatch, yesterday's issue. Mr. A. J. Livingston, formerly of the Philadelphia Enquirer and the Richmond Times-Dispatch, yesterday's issue, was a member of the editorial force of the Morning Journal. Mr. Livingston has been in New Mexico for about a year and during the greater part of that time has been in charge of the news department of the Santa Fe newspaper. He is an experienced newspaper man, and will take the position of staff correspondent for the Morning Journal, traveling in New Mexico and Arizona.

HARD WORK OF THE REVISERS

Colonel Caton Talks and Explains What Has Been Done by Them.

Before leaving for his home in Alexandria last night, Colonel James R. Caton, of the Revision Committee of the Legislature, gave out the following interview on the work of the body:

Our work is practically completed and in the hands of the public printer. We expect to have our report and all bills which, in the judgment of the committee, it is necessary for the General Assembly to pass to conform the statutes to the new Constitution, on the desks of the members of the General Assembly when that body convenes on November 10th.

The committee has not re-codified the laws of the State for two reasons: First, the time allowed us within which to accomplish the work was wholly insufficient; and second, the scope of the revision, under which it was acting, did not authorize it. While a re-codification of the laws would in many respects be desirable, I think it is the unanimous opinion of the committee that it is inadvisable and changes in the law passed have been fairly tested, and the state of the law under the new Constitution settled.

The work of the committee has, therefore, been confined to revising the statutes, and suggesting such amendments as are necessary in the laws of the Commonwealth to conform them to the new Constitution. This work has involved an examination of every section of the Code and all amendments thereof and acts of a general nature supplemental thereto since 1887. This has been a very laborious task, and has received the patient, faithful and careful attention of each member of the committee, and we have found it difficult to accomplish this task within the time allowed us.

We have prepared bills for the action of the General Assembly containing such amendments and changes in the law as, in the judgment of the committee, are necessary to carry out the purpose of the resolution under which it was acting, and its report will briefly state the reasons for the changes suggested.

The General Assembly will find every moment of its time occupied in the consideration of these bills, and there will be no time for the consideration of outside matters, there being over two hundred bills recommended by the committee.

The committee have been greatly aided in their labors by the valuable services of J. N. Brennan, its clerk, whose long experience in legislative matters and whose connection with the Constitutional Convention as clerk of the Committee on Final Revision of the Constitution rendered his services to the committee indispensable.

THE CITY'S POSITION.

The city of Richmond is in a position where it can do little but await the decision of the directors in the matter. The committee is now pending in the matter of tax reduction as a means of retaining the railway offices here. The only thing that could be done would be for the city to agree to make a sum of money to help the railway meet its taxation expense. That is wholly impracticable.

As far back as 1897, when the railway owed the city as much as $200,000 in accumulated taxes and interest, the city was induced to accept less than $100,000 in full settlement of the claim. At that time a resolution was adopted fixing the annual figure for taxation at a sum more than the amount of $100,000. While this resolution would not have stood the test of the courts, no contest was made, the city thereby releasing a large sum in taxation. A resolution is now pending in the Council repealing this old resolution, and leasing the railroad liable for taxation on the basis fixed by the State Corporation Commission. The Constitution specifically provides for the taxation of all real and personal property, roads, and no matter at what point the offices of the company may be located, the road cannot escape taxation. The only benefit the road might derive from removal to Clifton Forge would be that its property would be exempt from the city's taxation, and the land on which it stands would probably not be assessable at such a high rate, real property in this city being more valuable than in Clifton Forge.

N. & W. EARNINGS.

The Norfolk and Western Railway's earnings for the fourth week in October and for the month and the fiscal year, thus far, as estimated by the company, are: Fourth week: $77,703; increase, $97,829. Total estimated earnings for October, $1,966,744; for the month this year, $1,966,744; increase for the month, $1,966,744; for the year, $1,966,744; increase for the year, $1,966,744.

Mr. W. O. Warthen, district passenger agent of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is expected back to-day from Hot Springs, where he has been for a week for recreation and recuperation. He will leave soon for an extended trip West, and his place will be filled by his assistant, Mr. J. H. Williams.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railway will carry the Richmond and many of the Virginia delegations from this city to Charleston, S. C., on the tenth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Some will leave to-day at 9:05 A. M., and the remainder this evening at 7:25.

The Norfolk and Western expects to carry a large trainload of University of Virginia men and football enthusiasts from this city to Norfolk and return on Saturday, November 21st, by special train to the ballgame and the football game at York. For a more fancy style the dress could be made with a gumpie and trimmed as illustrated.

Vellings, cashmere, china silk, albatross or any of the wash materials are suited to the mode.

Gans-Rady Company

MAN ABOUT TOWN

By HARRY TUCKER

We have received a letter from a magazine asking us for some pictures of our self and the house we were born in, and the one we now own.

It is with regret that we must decline to comply with the request.

We are not like Hall Caine, Anthony Hope, Rudyard Kipling, Mark Twain and Dr. Munyon, and don't want our pictures in the magazines.

As for the house we were born in, it was burned down, and we can't recollect what it looked like, and we wouldn't like to have the picture of the house we own printed. We don't own anything but a pigeon house, and we don't expect to own anything greater, as it takes all our spare funds to square ourselves with landlord, and half the time we can't do it.

We wish somebody would give us a nice brick house.

The time of year has come around again when it becomes duty to extend the city's welcome to the Solons.

Anybody don't know what a Solon is, we refer them to Mister Harry Owen, clerk of the House of Delegates, or Mister George Keefe, another clerk in the same body.

With the coming of the Solons, the expenses of the State increases.

The average Solon looks like a man with his face full of whiskers. He usually wears boots and chews tobacco, and it has been said that he has a weep in his pocket. He likes to make speeches in public places, and loves to see his name in the last of these papers.

Most Solons expect to be in the President's chair some day.

They are good fellows, and we hereby extend the welcome.

The circus is here.

We have been looking at the bills on the fences for many weeks, and we have been trying to save up enough for the bunch.

We have got to see that circus if we have to carry water for the elephant. We know it is the greatest on earth, and has got more animals than any other show.

Animals is what we want to see. We love to study natural history, and we see a chance of our life to do it now.

Military Assembly Thursday.

The assembly of the five companies of the Seventeenth Regiment will be held at the armory Thursday night of this week, at 8:30 o'clock. There will be a band concert, and invitations have been issued to a number of ladies and gentlemen to be present. The occasion will certainly be an interesting one, and those who go will greatly enjoy themselves.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

CHILD'S DRESS

A charming little dress in the short-skirted French style, that will win for its great favor, is shown here, made up in cream chamois and lace. These modes have a quaint style that is particularly attractive for little tots, and the employment of shirring only adds to the design. The dress may be of gumpie style or may be attached to the lining, which is decorated with tucking. The front and back are alike, both being shirred to a deep pointed yoke. The skirt is full, being slightly shaped at the upper edge in front, and is finished by a deep hem at lower edge.
